STAGE STORIES.

Amusement Announcements, Lobby Chat-ter—Odd Bits of Gossip.

CANADA'S KILTED MILITARY BAND.

The Government of Canada has at last, after repeated efforts, been prevailed upon to permit the celebrated Forty-eighth Highlanders' Regimental Band, of Toronto, to make an official concert tour of America, under their leader, Mr. John Slatter. The tour is under the direction of Mr. T. P. J. Power, who for two years was business manager in America of Godfrey's British Guards' Band. The band will appear in Paris, it is understood, on November 23, afternoon and evening. Those who have heard the band in their regular concert program (to which is added some Highland dancing and bag-piping by the regiment's own talent), say it is worth going many miles to hear their exquisite concert and military music, while their costumes which have led to their pet name of "The Kilties" are the most striking and unique worn by any military organization on the continent. Paris is to be congratulated in having secured them, as much public interest has been aroused.

Manager Porter has booked the famous Daly success "A Runaway Girl," to appear at the opera house on November 24th. This musical comedy has had a wonderful run in New York and will certainly attract a large audience here.

The Howard-Dorsett Company continues its engagement at the Grand, playing to large and well-pleased audiences every night. It is one of the best repertoire companies ever seen here and is winning many friends. Last night the company produced the "Circus Girl," and to-night "Fog's Ferry" will be the bill. The engagement closes to-morrow night with W. A. Brady's successful naval drama "Old Glory." Manager Porter has furnished an orchestra during this engagement, something never given with a ten, twenty and thirty cent show.

Two darlings met

And both went off,

They looked like "coons."

Harry Ward's Minstrels play to-night at Carlisle and to-morrow night at Millersburg. They also played Falmouth this week.

JAY GOULD'S MILLIONS.

Trustees Appointed to Manage His French Son-in-Law's Affairs.

It Will Take a Number of Years to Clear Away the Count's Debt, and a Wise Economy Must Be Exercised.

Paris, Nov. 1.—The civil tribunal has appointed George J. Gould trustee for the countess Castellane, his sister. According to the pleadings in the case her husband, Count Boni of Castellane, spent 23,000,000 francs in four years, whereas his income from his wife's fortune in only 3,000,000 francs.

Maitre Bonnet, when applying for the trusteeship informed the president of the court that the Countess herself recognized the expenditure had been too lavish and that it was necessary for some one of experience and authority to manage her affairs. He went on to say that, although the countess was a consenting party to the trusteeship, it was desirable that he should furnish precise details.

The income of the Countess, he went on to set forth was 3,000,000 francs. Since the marriage 15,000,000 francs had been expended, and the debts now amounted to 22,000,000 francs. The Gould family had met in consultation and unanimously decided to authorize Mr. George Gould to make the present application.

The debts, Maitre Bonnet said were as follows: 3,702,000 francs in connection with the charity bazar building and the hotel in the Rue Malakoff, etc., etc.; 6,585,260 francs on mortgages payable from 1900 to 1909; 4,293,155 francs on bills, money loaned; 9,100,000 francs owing to curio dealers.

Maitre Bonnet went on to assert that the creditors distrained on the Seine et Oise property, and that the family had to intervene to prevent the sale.

With regard to the fitness of George Gould to be trustee, Maitre Bonnet pointed out that his fortune was larger than that of the countess; that authority based on affection was great, and that no one was better qualified, as it was George Gould who was appointed executor of his father's will.

Another consideration was that the clearing away of the debts would take a number of years, and that, therefore, it would be wise to economize and not to go to the expense of a paid trustee.

The tribunal taking this view declared the plaintiff "possessed better than any other of the necessary position and authority to assist the defendant."

It appears that the countess, who was not present in court Wednesday, was questioned by President Baadoun last Friday.

FORTY-TWO MILES AN HOUR.

The Arrow, Under Contract to Make That Time, Launched at Nyack, N. Y.

New York, Nov. 1.—Chas. R. Flint's Arrow, under contract to be the fastest ship ever designed, was launched Wednesday at Ayer's ship yard at Nyack, N. Y. She has been built under a guarantee by her designer of 42 miles an hour, and it is expected that under pressure she will be able to make 50. It has been generally given out that she was constructed as a yacht for Mr. Flint's personal use, but rumors have been persistent that she was built under contract with one of the South American governments for service as a torpedo boat.

Her plans, as far as have been made public, show her fully equipped for torpedo service. The Arrow will go in tow to Newark, N. J., where her shafting and engines will be put in. Her destination after she is fitted out at Newark has not been announced.

Y.; McLaren and Sprague Co., of Toledo; American Screen Co., of Adrian, Mich.; Porter Screen Manufacturing Co., of Burlington, Vt., and the Owosso Manufacturing Co., of Owosso, Mich.

F. M. Kemp, for the board of directors, gave out the following statement:

"After a year's experience as a combine, we decided to quit rather than to build up further competition. On account of outside firms who have created a prejudice against us, we thought it best to dissolve at once. Everything has been harmonious among the firms interested in the trust. The combine did a business during the first year of $1,500,000 in the United States and Canada."

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.

There Were Eight Distinct Ones Felt in Jacksonville, Fla.—No Damage Was Wrought.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 1.—Eight distinct earthquake shocks were felt in Jacksonville Wednesday. The first shock was at 11:15 o'clock a. m. and shook some of the large buildings in the city. Hundreds of people believed that heavy ordnance was being fired in or near the city. At 11:25 another shock equally as severe was felt, and they continued at 15-minute intervals until 12:30 o'clock.

At 4:04 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the seventh shock of the day was felt, severer than any of the preceding, followed four minutes later by a report and shock, the severest of the day. The last disturbance made the window panes rattle in several sections of the city.

The local weather bureau officials realized the nature of the first shock and kept the time. Director Mitchell stated it was his opinion that the vibrations passed from south to north. There was no disturbance in the water noticeable, and the shocks were not severe enough to cause any damage.

THE CARLISTS' REVOLT

The Conspirators, in Three Groups, Were to Make an Attack.

Barcelona Police Have Discovered Two Depots of Arms, Rifles and Various Kinds of Sabers, Together With Ammunition.

Madrid, Nov. 1.—Papers and stamps bearing the inscription "The Royal Army of Catalonia" have been seized.

It is said that the revolution was timed for the first fortnight in November. The conspirators, in three groups, were to attack simultaneously the municipal council, the civil government and the captain general.

The minister of war says that the number of Carlists in Catalonia will not reach the figure announced by the minister of the interior who asserted that there were 800 Carlists in the vicinity of Berga.

The Barcelona police, somewhat belated, have discovered two depots of arms, rifles and various kinds of sabers together with ammunition enough to fill six carts. The resignation of the prefect of Barcelona will probably be accepted.

Madrid, Nov. 1.—It is officially admitted that the Carlist band in the vicinity of Berga numbers 800 men. Troops are closely pursuing them. Communication between Berga and Barcelona has been severed.

Another numerous band has appeared at Figols. It has 16 horses, and is divided into three groups. The gendarmes who searched the country-house of Senor Torres Baros, brother-in-law of the duke of Solferino (who has disappeared), where they seized several rifles, also obtained possession of documents giving the names of 126 Carlist chiefs and 600 Carlist soldiers.

CONFIDENCE IN GEN. WOOD.

Business Men of Santiago de Cuba Deplore the Discontinuance of the Military Department.

Santiago, de Cuba, Nov. 1.—Col. Whitelide has not received orders discontinuing this military department but the unofficial advices on the subject are accepted and business men generally deplore the outcome. They point out that Santiago's interests are entirely different from those of Havana and contend that a military headquarters should be maintained here. Everybody in Santiago has the utmost confidence in Gen. Wood but under the military system, Col. Whitelide has been able to adjust many important matters by personal attention. It is argued would have worked a hardship to the business interests of this community.

It is admitted on all hands that there is no necessity for a strong force of troops here, but it is considered essential that a military commander holding ample authority remain for some time to come.

ALVORD ARRESTED.

The Absconding Note Teller of the First National Bank, New York, Apprehended in Boston.

Boston, Oct. 30.—Cornelius L. Alvord, jr., the absconding note teller of the First National bank in New York city, who is charged with stealing $700,000 from the bank, was arrested here Monday afternoon by Chief Inspector William B. Watts, of this city, and Detective Armstrong, of New York, in an ordinary lodging house at the corner of West Newton street and Burlington avenue.

When arrested Alvord, who knew Detective Armstrong, stated that he was glad the suspense was ended, and was willing to go back to New York without papers. He sat down on the bed and smoked a cigar, and was only dressed in his underclothes at the time. He afterward dressed quickly and, packing a few underclothes in a bag, stated he was ready to go. SEVERE EARTHQUAKE.

Fifteen Persons Were Killed and a Large Number Injured at Caracas, Venezuela.

Caracas, Venezuela, Oct. 30.—At 4:46 a. m. Monday Caracas was visited by a severe earthquake. Fifteen persons were killed and many others injured. Great damage was done to buildings, including the Pantheon and the churches. The United States legation was badly damaged, but all the occupants escaped unhurt.

President Castro, who leaped from a balcony on the second floor of the government house, had one of his legs broken. William Henry Doveton Haggard had a narrow escape, the second floor of the British legation having fallen upon him and buried him in the debris.

The city of Caracas, which has frequently suffered from earthquakes, was visited last July by a series of seismic disturbances which did great damage to property. There were seven terrific shocks in succession, and the residents of the city were terror-stricken. President Castro and his family slept for several nights under tents in the Plaza Bolivar, and all the churches and theaters were kept closed for a week.

Still More Counterfeiting.

The Secret Service has unearthed another band of counterfeiters and secured a large quantity of bogus bills, which are so cleverly executed that the average person would never suspect them of being spurious. Things of great value are always selected for imitation, notably Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators but no equals for disorders like indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and general debility. ST. VITUS' DANCE

Three great and complete cures effected by Dr. Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy.

Mrs. J. A. Ferre, who resides near 905 Main Street, Hartford, Conn., says:

"My daughter Lulu became very ill with St. Vitus' dance over a year ago. She became so bad that she lost the use of her right arm and side, and we thought at one time she would lose her speech. Her tongue was almost paralyzed. She was so bad she could not feed herself, and at night she would get so nervous I had to sit and hold her. I tried several doctors but they did not do her any good. I did not find anything that would help her until I tried Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. She is now, by the use of this medicine, entirely cured."

C. H. Bailey, Esq., of Waterbury, Vt., writes:

"I am more than glad to write about my little daughter. Until a short time ago she had always been a very delicate child and subject to sick spells lasting weeks at a time. She was very nervous, and our family doctor said we would never raise her, she was so delicate and feeble. We felt much anxiety about her, especially as no doctors could benefit her, and had great fear for her future. Learning of the wonders being done by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I determined to give it to her. She soon became more cheerful and her nerves were strong. The medicine has done wonders for her and it is the best we ever knew. I recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, to everybody."

Mrs. J. Learmonth, of 776 Broadway, South Boston, Mass., says:

"At ten years of age my daughter became afflicted with a nervous condition which soon developed into St. Vitus' dance. It was pronounced by the attending physician to be a very severe attack. The mouth would be drawn spasmodically far to one side, the hands and arms were restless and constantly twitching. Her limbs also were weak; her ankles bent under her so that it was almost impossible to walk. She was so nervous that she would scream almost like a maniac and then have fits of crying. After two months' treatment without a cure, I concluded to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Three bottles entirely cured her. She is now thirteen years old, and has been well ever since, and to-day is a picture of health."

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

Seven-Story New York Building
Hurled Into the Air and Two Business Blocks Burned.

Exploding Chemicals in Tarrant's
Drug Store Shook Lower End of Manhattan Like an Earthquake.

The Concussion Caused the Walls of the Big Commission Storehouse
Fronting on Washington Street to Collapse.

New York, Oct. 30.—The long list of fire horrors that have occurred in and around the city of New York, a list that includes the Royal hotel fire, the Park Place disaster, and the Windsor and Hoboken fires, was added to Monday by a fire and explosion that shook the lower end of Manhattan like an earthquake, hurled a seven-story building into the air and set fire to two blocks of buildings with a loss of life that only the efforts of hundreds of men who were rushed to the work of digging away the ruins as soon as the fire was extinguished, will reveal.

The big building of Tarrant & Co., makers of medicinal specialties, standing at the northwest corner of Greenwich and Warren streets and filled with chemicals, took fire in some way that may never be known, at about a quarter after 12 o'clock Monday afternoon. An alarm was turned in. Soon afterwards second and third alarms were turned in.

In the meantime the other engines that had responded to the alarm had collected, and the firemen were busy rescuing people from surrounding buildings. Firemen had already taken many girls down the only fire escape upon the building, and more persons had been carried down the escapes of the Home-Made restaurant next door and the buildings adjoining on Warren street. The second explosion occurred about five minutes after the first. From the accounts of the witnesses, the building seemed to leap into the air, and in a moment masses of brick wall, timbers and stone were falling into the street.

The force of the explosion tore away the walls of the big commission storehouse fronting on Washington street and caused them to collapse, falling all at once in a mass of timber, boxes and barrels, from which the flames burst out from the Tarrant building like the belching of a cannon.

Across Warren street to the opposite buildings the flames leaped, setting them all afire at once, the force of the explosion demolishing windows and all wooden structures about the house. In a moment Warren street was choked up with a mass of debris and the whole place was aflame.

The great explosion was followed by half a dozen more scarcely intense and by a countless number of smaller ones.

By this time the fire apparatus was arriving from every direction. Deputy Chief Ahearn came about two minutes after the second series of explosions and he at once ordered a fifth alarm sent out followed by a general call for ambulances. The explosion and fire together had now assumed the proportions of a great catastrophe and it was thought that hundreds of lives had been lost.

Immense masses of masonry, pieces of cornice, great beams, window casings and an indescribable mass of wreckage of every description tumbled suddenly into the street in front of the building all at once.

The wreckage was thrown across through the windows of the building in which the Irving National bank is, on the northeast corner of the street. The offices of the Irving bank and of Mecklen Bros., bankers and brokers, were nearly wrecked.

At the first explosion an attempt was made to gather all the money and paper that was lying on the counters together and to throw them into the safe, and it was supposed that this had been done when the second explosion brought flying glass and plastering from the skylighted ceilings down about the heads of everybody and caused them to escape in a hurry.

Outside of a few who were injured in the streets, the loss of life by the fire and explosion must have occurred in the Tarrant building mainly, and possibly in the other buildings destroyed by the fire.

The number of persons in the Tarrant building was estimated to be in the neighborhood of 50. Secretary Allen, of the company, said that there were 45 employees, and he thought all got out with the exception of one. People who saw the fire declared, however, that more must have been lost.

A number of firemen were injured in various ways, however, and scores of persons received injuries of every degree from falling debris in the streets. Firemen and policemen covered with blood were common sights at the beginning of the fire and one of the latter, Galvin, of the Church street station, who was so badly cut up while assisting a fireman out of the wreck on Washington street was certain that firemen had been buried under the cave-in of the building.

Phillips, the engineer at Tarrant's said, when he described his own hurried exit from the building that Patterson, the chemist had told him some time ago, that there were dangerous chemicals in the place and that, if it ever caught fire, the best thing to people employed there could do would be to get as far away as quickly as they could.

At 3 o'clock the fire was completely under control of the firemen. The flames are still burning fiercely in the interior of the burned area, but danger of spreading is over. At 4 o'clock the flames had been extinguished in the buildings south of Warren street and crowds of men from the building department were put to work tearing down high walls. At the same time workmen were hurrying to the elevated railroad company to repair the downtown track.

Neither the officials of the police department nor of the building department were willing to give any estimate of the loss caused by the fire and explosion. That it will amount to over a million was not denied by anybody. The buildings which were destroyed or wrecked were:

A seven-story brick and stone structure the basement and first story, part of the third and fourth to the seventh story, occupied by Tarrant & Co., wholesale druggists; the sixth story partly by the F. T. Witte, Hardware Co. and the second and part of the third by Breitenbach & Co., manufacturers of patent medicines.

A seven-story brick building occupied by Eppens, Smith & Weinman Co., coffee roasting house.

A five-story brick building occupied by Locke & Conklin, produce dealers; Douglass & Co., cheese; Kahn, bakers' supplies, and Hopping & Campfield, broomsticks and broomstraw.

A six-story brick occupied by Alter, dried fruits; fifth floor, Havens Drug and Spice Co.; fourth floor, vacant, and second, Flake & Co., lemons and oranges; first and part of sixth, fruit dealers; first, Pedora & Xeneliss, lemons and oranges; basement, Cuneo, fruit dealer.

Five-story brick used as a hotel.

Five-story brick occupied, second to fifth floor, by the Morris Jackson Flag Co., and basement by Hart & Co., butter and cheese.

Five-story brick occupied by Shieffley, second-hand printers' materials; fourth floor occupied by O'Kief & Shieffley, printers; third by Morris Jackson Flag Co.; basement and first floor by Boerne, butter and eggs.

There are perhaps the bodies of 30 persons in the ruins, though, because of hot debris and the slowness of the moving of it, no body had been removed up to midnight.

There are 35 persons reported missing, and 100 men, women and children are on the list of the injured.

ORANGE RIVER COLONY.

The Boers Have 15,000 Men in the Field—These Are Divided Into Small Commandos.

London, Oct. 29.—According to a dispatch from Cape Town to the Daily Mail, a force of Boers attacked and surrounded a patrol of Cape police with a convoy near Hoopstad, Orange River Colony, last Wednesday, and a sharp fight ensued.

"The police," says the correspondent, "were compelled to abandon two Maxim. Ultimately reinforced by the yeomanry, they succeeded in getting away with the convoy, but they lost seven killed, 11 wounded and 15 captured. The colonials were outnumbered two to one, and the engagement lasted for two hours.

The Boers have 15,000 men in the field, nearly half of whom are in Orange River Colony. These are divided into commandos of some 300 each."

A PASSENGER MISSING.

It Is Thought a Young Woman Who Registered as "Miss Martin" Jumped Overboard.

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 29.—The steamship Nacoochee, from New York, arrived here Sunday with one passenger missing, a young woman registered as "Miss Martin." She told Capt. Smith that she was a school teacher in New Jersey but had lost her position. To another passenger she said that she had become despondent since she had lost her position and that she intended to commit suicide. Friday evening about 10 o'clock "Miss Martin" retired. Saturday morning she was missing. The only clue left was an umbrella on the handle of which was scratched "J. L. Maltby, Casevonia," and a ticket in her purse which had been purchased at Casevonia, N. Y.

TERRIBLE CRIME.

Joseph Dolinski Arrested on Suspicion of Having Murdered Anton Lizi at Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—With a bullet in his brain, his throat cut from ear to ear, his face hacked almost beyond recognition, and one eye gouged out, Anton Lizi, a Bohemian florist, brother to the burgomaster of Prague, Bohemia, was found dead Sunday in a ditch near Forty-third court and the river. Twelve hours later Joseph Dolinski, a Polish florist, was arrested for the crime.

When arrested Dolinski's clothes were covered with blood. Mary Lizi, widow of the murdered man is also detained by the police. Lizi had been married but a few weeks. Dolinski had formerly been a suitor for her hand.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 29.—Probably 15,000 persons visited Schenley park Sunday to witness the annual exhibition of chrysanthemums at the Phipps conservatory. In years past the conservatory has given the Pittsburgh public the greatest chrysanthemum shows ever seen in this country, but this year's promises, when at its height, to surpass them all.

GEN. CORBIN'S REPORT

Complete Statistical Record of the Army of the United States.

During the Year 3,995 Deserted and 22,592 Men Were Discharged—
Casualties in China Were Nine
Officers and 200 Men.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The annual report of Adj. Gen. Corbin to the secretary of war for the year ending June 30, 1900, is a complete statistical record of the army of the United States. It shows that the regular army consists of 2,535 officers and 63,863 enlisted men, and the volunteer army of 1,545 officers and 31,079 enlisted men, a grand total of 98,790, not including the hospital corps, which is not counted as a part of the effective strength of the army. The regular and volunteer army at present is distributed as follows:

United States, 998 officers, of whom 76 are volunteer officers and 18,895 enlisted men, all regulars; Alaska, 41 officers, 1,088 enlisted men; Porto Rico, 98 officers, 2,406 enlisted men; Cuba, 260 officers, 5,468 enlisted men; Philippines, 2,367 officers, 69,161 enlisted men; Hawaiian Islands, 6 officers, 219 enlisted men; China, 80 officers, 2,060 men. There are 879 volunteer enlisted men in Porto Rico, and 30,200 in the Philippines. These are the only places where volunteer enlisted men are serving. Some staff officers are serving in nearly all of the places named. The deaths reported in the army, both regular and volunteer, by the same division, are: United States, 14 officers, 264 men; Alaska, 3 men; Cuba, 7 officers, 146 men; Porto Rico, 36 men; Hawaiian Islands, 31 officers, 4 men; Philippines, 49 officers, 1,393 men; at sea, 3 officers, 84 men. Total, 74 officers and 1,390 men.

During the year there were discharged from service 22,592 men; deserted, 3,995.

The casualties in the Chinese campaign between July 1 and October 1 were nine officers and 200 enlisted men.

Gen. Corbin comments highly the operations of post exchanges and the canteen, saying that the reports from the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico "indicate that the post exchange has become an absolute necessity." He says that the total amount received from the exchanges so far as the reports show amounted to $1,915,862, with a net profit of $464,504.

Discussing the recruiting service for the regular army Gen. Corbin says: Of the 19,549 accepted applicants, 12,548 were native born and 3,001 of foreign birth; 18,649 were white, 670 colored and 30 Indians. The enlistments numbered 15,588 and the re-enlistments, the percentage of native born among the original enlistments was 881-3. The report shows that the recruiting officers making the first two items of foregoing list rejected 96,694 applicants—about 78 per cent. of the number seeking enlistment—as lacking in either legal, mental, moral or physical qualifications 987 of these were rejected as aliens, and 2,038 for illiteracy."

In the statistics given in a table showing the chronological list of actions in the Philippine islands from February 4, 1899, to June 30, 1900, together with the losses in killed and wounded. The totals show 33 officers and 476 men killed and 147 officers and 2,076 men wounded.

THE BOERS' ACTIVITY.

A Correspondent Points Out the Possibility of Their Having Been Reinforced.

London, Oct. 31.—The Cape Town correspondent of the Daily Mail comments upon the "astounding outburst of Boer activity," and points to the possibility of the Boers having been reinforced. Complaints are being heard in Cape Town, he asserts, regarding the "premature disbanding and dispensing with the services of the various volunteer forces."

The same correspondent says he learns on the highest authority that the late Prince Christian Victor was playing cricket early last week and that he was then congratulated upon his rapid recovery from enteric fever.

Passenger Robbed.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 31.—One passenger of the Ohio, just in from Nome, was robbed of $500 and one died en route. Ryan McKenzie was falsely reported aboard the Ohio. He is being brought out a prisoner on the Oregon, which will arrive within the week.

FERRELL FOUND GUILTY.

The Jury Returns a Verdict of Murder in the First Degree, Without Recommendation.

Marysville, O., Oct. 31.—The Ferrell case was given to the jury by Judge Melhorn at 4:40 Tuesday afternoon. His charge was quite lengthy, being devoted largely to instructions for the guidance of the jury in determining the mental status of the prisoner at the time the crime was committed. He especially admonished the jury that no light or flippant doubt or whim and no sentiment or previous impression should be allowed to enter into the case. The jury at once retired for deliberation.

Ferrell's demeanor during the whole of the last day's proceedings was one of apparent indifference, and during the early part of the evening, while the jury was debating the question that meant life or death to him, he was playing cards in the jail.

The jury Tuesday night returned a verdict of murder in the first degree, without recommendation, against Rosslyn Ferrell, the train robber charged with the murder of Express Messenger Lane. The verdict carries with it the death sentence.

THE FENCING MATCH.

An American Team Defeats a Team From the French Squadron at Annapolis.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 31.—A naval academy fencing team made an American audience happy Tuesday evening in the gymnasium by defeating a French fencing team from the French Atlantic squadron, seven bouts to two.

The French teams consisted of Ensigns Roy and Franquet, from the Cecille, and Ensign Pertus, from the Suchet. The naval academy team was: Naval Cadet Adolphus Andrews, of Texas; Lewis McBride, of Pennsylvania, and Sidney M. Henry, of New York.

The Mines Working.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 31.—The miners in the Wyoming region with the exception of those operated by the Lehigh Valley Co., were working Tuesday. The Susquehanna Co. had a full force of men at work in their Nanticoke collieries.

Killed With a Toy Shovel.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—Because he kicked over a little sand house Ernest Didier, 9 years old, was killed Tuesday with a toy shovel in the hands of 6-year-old George Waterman.

Prince Victor Dead.

London, Oct. 30.—A dispatch received here from Pretoria announces the death from enteric fever of Prince Christian Victor, of Schleswig-Holstein, eldest son of the Princess Helene, of England, and a grandson of Queen Victoria.

Invited to the Inauguration.

Sydney, N. S. W., Oct. 31.—The government has invited the premiers of Canada, Cape Colony and Natal, together with other representatives to attend the inauguration of the Commonwealth of Australia.

NOTE FROM FRANCE.

Accepted by Foreign Envoys as the Basis of Discussion.

Russia, in Her Acknowledgment of the Anglo-German Agreement, Unreservedly Accepts the First Two Clauses.

London, Oct. 31.—"Most serious trouble," says the Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Express, "is brewing in the Yangtse region, whither the empress dowager has sent emissaries to raise powerful armed bodies to exterminate converts and expel foreigners. She has appointed Yu Chau, a notoriously anti-foreign general, to be military governor of the Yangtse district."

In the province of Kwang Tung, according to the Hong-Kong correspondent of the Daily Mail, the rebellion is subsiding, owing to the scarcity of arms and ammunition.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Orders have been sent to Peking detaching Gen. James H. Wilson from duty as chief of staff under Gen. Chaffee and directing him to return to the United States. It had been the purpose of the government to make Gen. Wilson a member of the projected American commission to treat with the Chinese government for a settlement but the abandonment of the plan in favor of direct negotiations through Minister Conger made it unnecessary to retain Gen. Wilson in China.

London, Oct. 31.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Times, wiring Monday, says: "Li Hung Chang has wired to Chang Chih Tung, the Wu Chang viceroy, that the peace negotiations are satisfactory, but to other leading officials he has telegraphed exactly the reverse, bidding them prepare for eventualities."

Paris, Oct. 30.—The Havas agency here received the following from Peking:

"The foreign envoys have held further meetings, and the French note has been accepted in principle as the basis of discussion."

"The international council now returning from Pao Ting Fu is purging the villages enroute. The armed population is being punished and all arms are destroyed."

London, Oct. 30.—"Russia," says the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times, "in acknowledging the Anglo-German agreement, unreservedly accepts the first two clauses as establishing the principles she herself had already advocated. Concerning clause 3 she simply refers the two contracting parties to the Russian circular of August 25, saying that she would modify her attitude according to circumstances. The fourth clause is very curtly dismissed with the remark that it does not call for comment."

Berlin, Nov. 1.—The formal reply of Japan, unreservedly according to the terms of the Anglo-German agreement, has been received at the German foreign office.

Emperor William's long conversation Tuesday with the British ambassador Sir Frank Lascelles, dealt with a number of interesting topics. His majesty expressed satisfaction at the favorable reception given the Anglo-German agreement by all the powers which he called a "good prognostication of the speedy solution of the Chinese imbroglio."

Paris, Nov. 1.—The Politique Coloniale makes the following announcement: "The French ambassador to Great Britain (M. Paul Cambon) has received instructions to reply to the Anglo-German agreement that France adheres to the principles of the integrity of the Chinese empire and the 'open door,' and that with regard to article 3 she reserves the right to act in such a manner as to safeguard her interests."

Berlin, Nov. 1.—A special dispatch from Peking says that an Anglo-German force has occupied Yung Sing Fu, west of Shan Hai Kawn, on the Tsung Lun Ho river.

Brussels, Nov. 1.—It is announced here that the Franco-Belgian convention concluded during King Leopold's stay in Paris is mainly relative to the opening of the Hankow railway, and that it authorized Belgium to keep a garrison of 500 soldiers in order to protect the railway and the concessions in the Hankow district.

London, Oct. 30.—"The Chinese plenipotentiaries opened negotiations," said the Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Express, "by promising that China should pay an indemnity of £40,000,000 sterling, in 60 installments, agreeing that the Likin and the customs service should be under foreign control until the obligation should be discharged."

"They also agreed that Prince Tuan should be imprisoned for life, that Tien-Tsin should be treated as an international district and that other places should be opened to foreign trade."

"China undertakes to abstain from purchasing war material abroad. In order to raise the indemnity she proposes to double the import duties."

Senator Davis' Condition.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 1.—Senator Cushman K. Davis continues to recover from the ailment from which he has been suffering for the past six weeks or more, and Wednesday night Mrs. Davis said she is confident the senator will soon be able to be about.

Wants Chinese Question Settled.

London, Oct. 30.—"It is reported here," says the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Express, "that Emperor Nicholas will propose another conference with a view of settling the Chinese question."

X

DEMOCRATIC PARTY.
This is the way to vote the Straight Democratic Ticket.

The Outlook.

The outlook for the success of the Democratic ticket—both National and State—is very bright, and seldom has such enthusiasm been displayed.

Everywhere Mr. Bryan has spoken he has been greeted by large crowds and the enthusiasm has been great. In Cincinnati Wednesday night the large Music Hall was crowded two hours before the speaking was advertised to begin, and a vast crowd was unable to gain admission. This has been the case everywhere Mr. Bryan has appeared.

In Kentucky, everywhere Gov. Beckham has made a speech the crowds have been the largest that ever attended a political meeting at that point. The enthusiasm has also been very great.

Though the prospects are very bright it behooves every Democrat to come out next Tuesday and cast his vote for Bryan and Beckham.

Be sure to put the X in the circle under the rooster.

No Democrat should fail to vote for Bryan and Beckham.

Put your X in the circle under the rooster. That votes right and straight.

The polls will be open from six o'clock in the morning until four in the afternoon—one hour longer than formerly.

On account of illness Hon. W. B. Moody did not speak here Wednesday night as was advertised.

Let every Democrat vote early next Tuesday and see that his Democratic neighbor does likewise. Let there be no staying at home. Let's make the majority as large as possible.

A French court has appointed George J. Gould trustee for his sister, the Countess Castellane. The Count spent 23,000,000 francs in four years, while his income from his wife's estate is only 3,000,000 francs.

Political Notes.

A Democratic band wagon, filled with singers, musicians and speakers, is touring Boyle county this week and is making a great hit.

The band wagon method of campaigning, which proved so successful in Christian county, has been adopted in Henderson, Hopkins and other counties by the Democrats.

Three thousand people attended an all-day Democratic rally at Paintsville, Tuesday. The crowd was the largest ever seen at a Democratic meeting in that strongly Republican county.

Mr. Bryan toured the Buckeye State Wednesday from Lake Erie to the Ohio river. Beginning at Toledo, he made twelve speeches before reaching Cincinnati, where at night, he spoke to a great outpouring in Music Hall, being introduced by Judson Harmon, who was Attorney General in Cleveland's Cabinet.

Gov. Beckham and Mr. Ollie James spoke at Fulton Tuesday night and the occasion brought out 10,000 people and proved to be the banner demonstration of the State campaign. A feature was a torchlight parade about two miles in length. In the afternoon Gov. Beckham and Mr. James spoke to an enthusiastic crowd of 3,000 people at Clinton.

Perfected At Last!

AFTER years of study and experiment Dr. J. R. Adair, of this city, has perfected a mouth wash that will be a benefit to humanity. This wash will positively stop the decay of teeth, sweeten the breath, and will prevent the loss of many valuable teeth. Dr. Adair's preparation is called "Antiseptaleine," and is doubtless the best mouth wash on the market. Dr. Adair is making preparations to supply the trade with it, and when he begins to manufacture it he will give up his practice and devote his entire time to placing "Antiseptaleine" on the market.

SEND the BOURBON NEWS to your absent friends. It gives them all the news twice a week and is better than a letter from home. To a person away from home nothing is more acceptable than the home paper. Now is the time to subscribe.

THE Hallowe'en party given Wednesday night at Odd Fellows Hall by the Progressive Culture Club was quite a pleasant success. The program consisted of musical numbers, tableaux, recitations. Luncheon was served during the evening. The entertainment netted about fifty dollars for the Public Library Fund.

ACCORDING to some of the latest laws newspaper publishers may cause individuals, who take a paper and refuse to pay for it, to be arrested for fraud. Under this ruling, also, any one who allows his subscription to run along for a time unpaid and then orders it discontinued, or orders the postmaster to mark it "refused" and sends a postal card to the publisher, is liable to arrest and fine the same as for theft and other crimes.

In Judge Smith's Court.

In Judge Smith's Court this week Chas Reed was fined $55 for selling liquor without license, Frank Bell was fined $32 for a similar offense.

John Fields, charged with running a crap game, was held over to Circuit Court. Sid Humphreys was fined $24.75 for shooting craps.

The remains of James Manning, of this city, who died in the army service in the Philippines on August 25th, were brought to this city Wednesday night. The remains were shipped in a metallic casket. The casket was opened at Davis' undertaking establishment Wednesday night and several friends viewed the body. The remains were shipped from Manila on September 21 and arrived in San Francisco on October 23, and arrived here on October 31. The remains were taken yesterday morning to the home of his sister, Mrs. Barney Brannon. The burial occurred yesterday afternoon at three o'clock.

The Remington-White Will Case.

Argument in the Remington-White will case, which has been on trial for three weeks at Lexington, was finished yesterday morning. Col. Breckinridge making the closing speech.

The estate in question involves $30,000. In 1895 Robinson White made a will, leaving a portion of his estate to his relatives and giving a farm of 212 acres to George W. Linkinfelter, who had been his manager.

The relatives are contesting the will, claiming that White was mentally incapacitated.

Mrs. B. F. Remington, of this city, is one of the heirs to the estate.

The Postoffice Matter.

POSTOFFICE INSPECTOR BETZ has made a full investigation this week of the business affairs of the Paris postoffice, and found a shortage of $392.31. He at once called together the postmaster's bondsmen and the sum was promptly paid. Inspector Betz conferred with the bondsmen and leaves Postmaster Bosley in full charge of the office until the Department takes action in the matter.

Deputy Postmaster Stivers declined to have anything further to do with the office. We understand that Mr. Stivers is an applicant for the position of postmaster.

A Republican Scheme.

Albert S. Thompson, of Clintonville, was yesterday arrested by Deputy U. S. Marshal Con McCarty on the charge of trying to prevent negroes from voting. Mr. Thompson this week swore out warrants for the arrest of five or six notorious negroes of the Clintonville precinct, for gambling, and selling liquor without license. The negroes were convicted in Judge Smith's court. Mr. Thompson gave bond and does not consider the matter serious. Mr. Thompson's arrest is denounced as a Republican scheme.

A Distinguished Visitor.

Hon. W. C. Whitney, the New York millionaire, politician and turfman, was in the city a short time yesterday morning. He came from Lexington in his private car, and went out to visit the stock farms of Mr. Catesby Woodford and Col. Clay. Mr. Whitney was Secretary of the Navy under President Cleveland.

If you cannot read this small print at a distance of 14 inches your eyesight is failing and should have immediate attention:

Imperial spectacles and eyeglasses have perfect lenses, always perfectly centred and made of purest material, set in frames of the highest elasticity and "consequence"; of greatest durability, united with the utmost lightness and strength. When the frame and lenses are scientifically fitted by Dr. C. H. Bowen, a day's anxiety gives satisfaction for they are perfect. For this class of spectacle, not of men who do not know how to fit them. You will get poorly adjusted spectacles, or poor, imperfect lenses, and are better off without any glasses than with either of these defects. Buy Imperial spectacles of a reliable, skillful dealer, and they will last longer without change and be cheaper in the end.

We have engaged the services of Dr. C. H. Bowen who will visit our store on the second and last Thursdays of each month and invite all to call and have their eyes examined, for which there is no charge. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Next visit—Thursday, Nov. 8, 1900. Hello, 170.

THE EVENING PRAYER.

Tired eyes are gently closing
As the twilight droppeth down,
Wrapping with the veil of slumber
Hill and valley, dale and town;
Softly little hands are folded
As the shadows closer creep—
Silent lips of childhood murmur
"Now I lay me down to sleep."

Down life's pathway stretching onward
Lies the path unseen, unknown,
Waiting for their coming footsteps—
But the Father guards His own;
And, as stainless as in childhood,
He will guide by pitfalls deep,
If as now, they plead: "I pray Thee—
Pray Thee, Lord, my soul to keep."

Now the tender mother, listening,
Feels her pulses thrill with fear,
As she fancies, in the shadow,
Death, the dark-robed, lurking near;
And with throbbing heart she questions
How the sacrifice to make,
At the low words, scarcely spoken:
"Should I die before I wake?"

Sleep now has almost won them,
Droops the lashes lower still,
While a sweet and holy presence
All the twilight seems to fill;
And the listening Saviour only,
As the words their lips forsake,
Hears the last half-uttered whisper:
"Pray, Thee—Lord—my soul—to take."
—Ettie Gilbert McNeill, in Ram's Horn.

It was an impressive scene as the old soldier read the sad details to the rapidly growing group of weeping women, for that was Emory's garrison now, while the official reports were hurried on to catch the general on his way to Cheyenne. Some one warned the band leader, and the musicians marched away to quarters. Some one bore the news to town, where the flags over the hotel and the one newspaper office were at once lowered to half staff, although that at Emory, true to official etiquette and tradition, remained until further orders at the peak, despite the fact that two of the annihilated companies were from that very post. Some one bore the news to Burleigh's quarters at the depot, and, despite assertions that the major could see no one and must not be agitated or disturbed, disturbed and agitated he was beyond peradventure. Excitedly the sick man sprang from his bed at the tidings of the massacre and began penning a letter. Then he summoned a young clerk from his office and told him he had determined to get up at once, as now every energy of the government would doubtless be put forth to bring the Sioux to terms. It was the young clerk who a few weeks back had remarked to a fellow employe how "rattled" the old man was getting. The major's doctor was not about. The major began dictating letters to various officials as he rapidly dressed, and what happened can best be told in the clerk's own words: "For a man too sick to see anyone two hours before," said he, "the major had wonderful recuperative powers, but they didn't last. He was in the midst of a letter to the chief quartermaster, and had got as far as to say: 'The deplorable and tragic fate of Lieut. Dean points, of course, to the loss of the large sum intrusted to him,' when I looked up and said: 'Why, Lieut. Dean ain't dead, major; he got in all right,' and he stared at me a minute as if I had stabbed him. His face turned yellow-white and down he went like a log—had a fit, I s'pose. Then I ran for help, and then the doctor came and hustled everybody out."

But not till late that night did these details reach "Old Pecksniff" at the post. A solemn time was that veteran having, for many of the women were almost in hysterics and all were in deep distress. Two of their number, wives of officers, were widowed by the catastrophe, and one lay senseless for hours. It was almost dark when Mr. Folsom and the girls drove homeward, and his face was lined and haggard. Pappoose nestled fondly, silently at his side, holding his hand and closely scanning his features, as though striving to read his thoughts. Jessie, comforted now by the knowledge that Marshall was rapidly recovering, and the words of praise bestowed upon him in the colonel's letters, was nevertheless in deep anxiety as to the future. The assurance that the Sioux, even in their overwhelming numbers, would not attack a stockade, was not sufficient. Marshall would be on duty again within a very few days, the colonel said. His wounds would heal within the week, and it was only loss of so much blood that had prostrated him. Within a few days, then, her loved brother would be in saddle and in the field against the Indians. Who could assure her they would not have another pitched battle? Who could say that the fate that befell the garrison at Warrior Gap might not await the troop when next it rode away? And poor Jess had other anxieties, too, by this time. Loomis was burning with eagerness for orders to lead it instantly to join the field column, and importuned Col. Stevens, even in the midst of all the grief and shock of the early evening. Almost angrily the veteran colonel bade him attend to his assigned duties and not demand others. "C" troop should not with his advice and consent be sent north of the Platte. "First thing you know, sir, after they've got all the troops up along the Big Horn you'll see the Sioux in force this side of the river, murdering right and left, and not a company to oppose them. No, sir, more than enough of that troop have already been sacrificed! The rest shall stay here."

And well was it, for one and all, that Old Pecksniff held firm to his decision. It was one of his lucid intervals.

Late that evening, after ten o'clock, there came the sound of hoofbeats on the hard road and the crack of a long-lashed mule-whip, and the fort ambulance clattered up to Folsom's gate, and the colonel himself, his adjutant by his side, came nervously up the gravel walk. Folsom met them at his door. Instinctively he felt that something new and startling was added to the catalogue of the day's disastrous tidings. Pecksniff's face was eloquent of gravest concern, mingled with irrepressible excitement.

"Let me see you in private, quick," he said. "Mr.—ah—Mr. Adjutant, will you kindly remain in the parlor," and, taking Folsom by the elbow, Pecksniff led impetuously into the library. The girls had gone aloft only a moment before, but, dreading news of further evil, Pappoose came fluttering down.

"Go in and welcome the adjutant, dear," said Folsom, hurriedly. "The colonel and I have some matters to talk of." Obediently, she turned at once, and, glancing up the stairs, noticed that Mrs. Fletcher's door must have been suddenly opened, for the light from her room was now streaming on the third-floor balusters. Listening again! What could be the secret of that woman's intense watchfulness? In the parlor the young staff officer was pacing up and down, but his face lighted at sight of Elinor.

"Do you know—Is there anything new?—anything worse?" she quickly asked, as she gave her slim young hand.

"Not concerning our people," was the significant answer. "But I fear there's more excitement coming."

Barely waiting for Elinor to withdraw, Pecksniff had turned on Folsom. "You know I opposed the sending of that party? You know it was all ordered on Burleigh's urging and representations, do you not?"

"Yes, I heard so," said Folsom. "What then?"

"You know he planned the whole business—sent 'em around by Canyon Springs and the Sweetwater?"

"Yes, I heard that, too," said Folsom, still wondering.

"You know some one must have put that Birdsell gang on the scent, and that Burleigh has had alleged nerve prostration ever since, and has been too ill to see anyone or to leave his bed."

"Yes, so we were told."

"Well, he's well enough to be up and away—God knows where, and here is the reason—just in from the north," and, trembling with excitement, Pecksniff pointed to the closing paragraph of the letter in his hand:

"Cords, seals and wrapping were intact when handed to the quartermaster, but the contents were nothing but worthless paper. It must have been so when given to Lieut. Dean."

Folsom's eyes were popping from his head. He sank into a chair, gazing up in consternation. "Don't you see, man!" said Pecksniff, "some one in the depot is short $10,000 or so. Some one hoped to cover this shortage in just this way—to send a little squad with a bogus package, and then turn loose the biggest gang of ruffians in the country. They would have got it but for the storm at Canyon Springs, and no one would have been the wiser. They couldn't have got it without a murderous fight. No one would ever dare confess his complicity in it. No statement of theirs that there wasn't a cent in the sack could ever be believed. Some one's shortage would be covered and his reputation saved. The plot failed, and God's mercy was over Dean's head. He'd 'a' been murdered or ruined if the plan worked—and now Burleigh's gone!"

CHAPTER XXII.

Yes, Burleigh was gone, and there was confusion at the depot. At six the doctor had come forth from his room, saying he was better, but must not be disturbed. At seven the major, carrying a satchel, had appeared at his office, where two clerks were smoking their pipes, innocent of all thought of their employer's coming. It was after hours. They had no business there at the time. Smoking was prohibited in the office, yet it was the major who seemed most embarrassed at the unexpected meeting. It was the major who hastily withdrew. He was traced to the railway, and it was speedily found that he had sent word to the division superintendent that the general had telegraphed for him to join him at once at Cheyenne, and a special engine and caboose would be needed. At a quarter past seven this had started full speed. It was 11 when the discovery was made. Meantime Folsom and Stevens had consulted together. Folsom had told of the large sum he had loaned Burleigh and the conditions attached, and between them a dispatch, concisely setting forth their suspicions, was sent the general at Cheyenne, with orders to "rush," as they were determined if possible to head off the fugitive at that point. Back came the wire ten minutes before midnight that the general had left Cheyenne for Laramie by stage that evening, and must now be near the Chugwater and far from telegraphic communication. Then Stevens wired the sheriff at Cheyenne and the commanding officer of the new post of Fort Russell to stop Burleigh at all hazards, and at two in the morning the answer came that the major had reached Cheyenne about midnight and they would search everywhere for him. This was the last until long after the rising of another sun.

Events and excitements, alarms and rumors followed each other with startling rapidity during the day. In glaring headlines the local paper published the details of the massacre at the Gap, lauding the valor and devotion of the soldiers, but heaping abuse upon the commander of the post, who, with other troops at his disposal, had looked on and lifted no hand to aid them. Later, of course, it was proved that the veteran had foiled old Red Cloud's villainous plan to lure the whole garrison into the open country and there surround and slowly annihilate it, while then, or at their leisure later, his chosen ones should set fire to the unprotected stockade and bear off those of the women or children whose years did not commend them to the mercy of the hatchet. Soldiers and thinking men soon saw the colonel was right and that the only mistake he had made was in allowing any of the garrison to go forth at all. But this verdict was not published, except long after as unimportant news and in some obscure corner. The Laramie column, so the news ran, was hastening down the Powder river to strike Red Cloud. The Indians would be severely punished, etc., etc. But old Folsom's face grew whiter as he read that such orders had been sent and that the general himself was now at Laramie directing matters. "In God's name," urged he, "if you have any influence with the general, tell him not to send a foot column chasing horsemen anywhere, and above all not to follow you know Red Cloud and all his young men will have slipped around their flank and come galloping back to the Platte, leaving the old men and women and worn-out ponies to make tracks for the 'heap walks' to follow."

And Stevens listened dumbly. Influence he had never had. Folsom might be right, but it was a matter in which he was powerless. When a depot quartermaster, said he, could dictate the policy that should govern the command of a colonel of the fighting force, there was no use in remonstrance. Noon came and no news from the Cheyenne sheriff. The commanding officer at Russell wired that he, too, was stripped of his troops, and had not even a cavalry courier to send after the general with the startling news that Maj. Burleigh had vanished with large sums, it was believed, in his possession. At one o'clock came tidings of the fugitive. He, together with two other men, had spent the late hours of the night at the lodgings of one of the party in Cheyenne, and at dawn had driven away in a "rig" hired at a local stable, ostensibly to follow the general to Laramie. They had kept the road northward on leaving town—were seen passing along the prairie beyond Fort Russell, but deputies, sworn in at once and sent in pursuit, came back to say the rig had never gone as far as Lodge Pole. At six p. m. came further tidings. Lieut. Loring, engineer officer of the department, had reached Cheyenne and was in consultation with the commanding officer at Russell. The rig had been found at Sloan's ranch, far up Crow creek, where the party had taken horses and ridden westward into the Black Hills. In anticipation of a big reward, the sheriff had deputies out in pursuit. From such information as they could gather it was learned that the name of one of the parties gone with Burleigh was Newhall, who claimed to be a captain in the army, "out there looking after investments"—a captain who was too busy, however, to go and see the few fellows of his cloth at the new post and who was not known to them by sight at all. The engineer, Mr. Loring, was making minute inquiries about this fellow, for the description given him had excited not a little of his interest.

And so the sun of the second day went down on Gate City and Emory, and everybody knew Burleigh was gone. The wisest rumors were afloat, and while all Fort Emory was in mourning over the tragedy at Warrior Gap, everybody in town seemed more vividly concerned in Burleigh and the cause of his sudden flight. As yet only certain army officers and Mr. Folsom knew of the startling discovery at the stockade—that the package was a bogus affair throughout. But all Gate City knew Burleigh had drawn large sums from the local bank, many citizens had heard that John Folsom was several thousand dollars the poorer for his sudden going, and all interest was centered in the coming from Chicago of an expert summoned by wire, to open the huge office safe at the quartermaster's depot. The keys had gone with Burleigh. At the last moment, after loading up with all the cash his own private safe contained, for that was found open and practically empty in its corner of his sitting-room, and when he had evidently gone to the office to get the funds there stored, he was confounded by the sight of the two employes. He could have ordered them to leave and then helped himself, but conscience had made coward of him, even more than nature. He saw accusers in every face, and fled. Burleigh had lost his nerve.

Two days went by and excitement was at its height. All manner of evil report of Burleigh was now afloat. The story of the bogus package had been noised abroad through later messengers and dispatches from the Gap. Lieut. Loring had come to Fort Emory under the instructions of the department commander, and what those instructions were no man could find out from the reticent young officer. If ever a youth seemed capable of hearing everything and telling nothing it was this scientist of a distinguished corps that frontiersmen knew too little of. What puzzled Folsom and old Pecksniff was the persistence with which he followed up his inquiries about Capt. Newhall. He even sought an interview with Pappoose and asked her to describe the rakish traveler who had so unfavorably impressed her. She was looking her loveliest that evening. Jessie was radiant once more. A long letter had come from Marshall—sad because of the fate that had befallen his companions, stern because of the evidence of the deep-laid plot that so nearly made him a victim, but modestly glad of the official commendation he had received, and rejoicing over the surgeon's promise that he could be well enough to make the march with a command ordered back to Frayne. Red Cloud's people had scattered far and wide, said he. "God grant they may not turn back to the south." He was coming home. He would soon be there. The papers had told their readers this very morning that the general had plainly said his force was too small to risk further assault upon the Sioux. Alarmed at the result of its policy, the bureau had recommended immediate abandonment of the troops from the Big Horn country. The war department, therefore, had to hold its hand. The Indians had had by long, long odds the best of the fight, and perhaps would be content to let well enough alone. All this had tended to bring hope to the hearts of most of the girls, and Loring's welcome was the more cordial because of this and because of his now known championship of Marshall's cause. From being a fellow under the ban of suspicion and the cloud of official censure, Marshall Dean was blossoming out as a hero. It was late in the evening when Folsom brought the young engineer from the hotel and found Elinor and Jessie in the music room, with Pecksniff's adjutant and Loomis in devoted attendance. It was nearly 11 when the officers left—two returning to the fort, Loring lingering for a word with Folsom at the gate. The night was still and breathless. The stars gleamed brilliantly aloft, but the moon was young and had early gone to bed. A window in the third story softly opened, as the two men stopped for their brief conference—the one so young-looking, sturdy and alert, despite the frost of so many winters; the other so calm and judicial, despite his youth.

HUNTING OSTRICH NESTS.

Hidden Deep in the Desert Sand
They Are Extremely Hard to Find.

Although the skin of an ostrich is worth from $40 to $100 on the spot, the hunter of the desert usually prefers to search for the eggs when he has discovered an ostrich in flight. An English traveler in the Sahara, Mr. H. B. Tristram, describes this search, says Youth's Companion.

"Once, and once only, I had the good fortune to take an ostrich's nest, although fresh eggs were not infrequently brought in by the Arabs. We observed with our telescopes two birds standing for some time in the same spot, and were induced to ride toward them. They rapidly scudded off, but on intersecting their track we turned back and retraced it instead of continuing a vain pursuit."

"An ostrich's track is by no means easy either to follow or to retrace, for his stride measures, when he is at full speed, from 22 to 28 feet; and the oblong impression of two toes at so wide intervals affords no very evident track to any eyes less expert than those of a Bedouin huntsman."

"We retraced the impression to the spot where we had seen the birds standing together, and where the sand was well trodden down. Two Arabs at once dismounted and began to dig with their hands, and presently they brought up four fresh eggs from a depth of about a foot under the warm sand."

"Ostrich-egg omelet we always found a most welcome addition to our desert bill of fare, and a convenient and portable provision, for from the thickness of the shell the eggs kept perfectly sweet and fresh for a fortnight or three weeks."

New Light on History.

Nero, fiddle in hand, sat upon his throne when a little band of captives was led before him.

"Now," he roared, in royal tones, "you have your choice between hearing me play a study in cadenzas with the middle finger on the E string, or being burned alive at the matinee at the Coliseum."

"Bring on your torches," shouted the desperate captives.

Later on Nero fiddled, and burned things, and conducted himself in an outrageous manner. "I hate to do this," he explained, "but they depend on me for some warm scenes in 'Quo Vadis.'"—Baltimore American.

WHITE HOUSE FIRES.

Twice the Executive Mansion Was on the Verge of Destruction.

Saved by the Heroic Work of Gallant Firemen—President Johnson's Generosity to the Brave Boys.

[Special Washington Letter.]

THERE are only two of us who draw the maximum pension of $50 per month," says Calhoun Clark, one of the retired veterans of our city fire department. "This pension roll is kept up by the voluntary contributions of the firemen. For many years I gave up one dollar every month for the pension fund. The lowest pension paid is six dollars per month and the highest is $50, which amount I draw, and it gives me a competence."

The old gentleman will not discuss his career and his deeds of daring, but he is known as one of the bravest of the brave, a man whose career in the fire department of the national capital would fill a volume. He likes to talk about the fire department and its good work, but never about himself.

"It is not generally known nowadays that on two occasions the white house came near burning down," said Mr. Clark. "Both times the fires occurred during the administration of Andrew Johnson. In 1867 the white house stables took fire just before daybreak. Those stables were located on the ground just east of the white house and opposite the west entrance of the treasury department. They were brick stables, but the woodwork and the inflammable contents made a hot fire. We had a hard time that morning, for it was one of the coldest mornings I have ever known. I was driver of Hibernia Engine company, which was located three blocks west of the white house. The alarm was brought to us by a cavalryman, and we were very soon on the scene. In those days we did not have electric alarms, as they have now. Well, very soon after we came the Meigs and the Rucker engines with their firemen. All three engines worked hard that bitter cold morning. We prevented the conflagration from extending to the white house, but we could not save the stables."

"When our work was over we were all taken down into the basement of the white house and supplied liberally with coffee and other things to drink, and everything eatable that there was on the market was spread out for us and served to us in elegant style. We had an impromptu state dinner there that morning, and I never ate a meal that I enjoyed so much, because I was hungry and cold and in good condition to enjoy a meal. It was the greatest breakfast the firemen here ever had tendered to them, and, I guess, we were the only firemen in the world who were ever entertained at breakfast by the executive head of a nation."

"Col. William Dickson was chief engineer of the government fire department at that time. He is the man who was foreman of the star jury, and who was for many years democratic national committeeman for the District of Columbia, and one of the most popular of our citizens. He was a brave man and a successful chief."

"The other time the white house was in danger was when the conservatory took fire. That, you know, is adjoining the west wall of the white house, and it was difficult to keep the fire from taking hold of the main building. But by hard work and careful attention to every detail of the work in hand we kept the white house from taking fire, and we saved a portion of the conservatory, too. But it

"There were three other notable fires in which cold weather prevailed against us and our work. Wall's opera house burned down. It was on the corner of Ninth and Louisiana avenue, close to Pennsylvania avenue. The site has since been occupied by Ford's theater, and is now the common vaudeville playhouse. That was an awful night of hard work in winter weather."

"Then there was the burning of Lincoln's hall, the home of the Y. M. C. A. That fire occurred in midwinter and kept us hard at work all night, but it went up in smoke. Some of the firemen succumbed to the cold and were obliged to give up. There were many frozen fingers and toes and ears, and some of the men never recovered from the effects of the work of that night."

"In the winter of 1886 the National theater burned. We were all praying that no fire would occur that night, for it was blustery and cold—a sort of damp cold that penetrates even to the bones. But just after midnight we were called out, and we worked all night to save adjoining property. The theater was doomed when we got there. But it was on Pennsylvania, in the heart of the city, near two prominent hotels, and surrounded by business houses. We saved all of that property. But it was a night of exhaustion and terror to all of us on account of the weather."

"Well, I'm glad it is all over. But, to tell the truth, I really enjoyed the work, the excitement of it and the feeling that we were heroically endeavoring to save life and property for our fellow men. There is a great deal of pride in the breast of a true fireman. He feels that he is a public benefactor all the time; and let me tell you that I have seen many a fireman do deeds which would give him a hero's crown if done in battle."

Then, turning from the subject of a fireman's life in the early days, Mr. Clark said: "Some evening I will tell you about my experience as a page boy in the house of representatives. I was there when some of the greatest men in the land were members. Ex-President John Quincy Adams was one of them. I was there when Morrill, of Vermont; Sumner, of Massachusetts; Breckenridge, of Kentucky, and Brooks, of South Carolina, came to congress. Brooks was the man who assaulted Sumner with a cane. All four of the men whom I have named were physical giants. Sumner was the handsomest of them all. He was a natural athlete. If he had taken a different course in life he could have whipped a regiment of Sullivan, Corbetta and Sharkey. I'll tell you about those men some evening soon."

"The hottest fire I was ever engaged in fighting began at 10:40 a. m. September 18, 1877, in the patent office, in the model rooms on the Ninth and G street wing. That fire raged for two days and nights. Fire engines came here from Baltimore to help us, and they rendered good service. The fire lasted from Wednesday morning until Friday afternoon, and smoldered for some time after that. The heat was so intense and awful that firemen at the nozzle could only play on the flames for a couple of minutes at a time. Then they would retire almost roasted, and others would take their places. The steam engines kept puffing and blowing constantly and the water supply of the city was almost exhausted."

"All along G street the houses were in great danger. The Baltimore engines were worked for their protection. There was a large stable on that street which was in danger all of the time, and, if it had caught fire, that whole section of the city would have been in danger. The Baltimore boys protected that stable and adjoining buildings, and kept them saturated with water. The flying cinders fell on roofs which were wet enough all the time to put them out. The fire was finally stopped at the corner of Seventh and G street, checked, headed off and driven back."

THE RUN TO THE FIRE.

But it was the most terrific work that I ever experienced. The model-room of the patent office was practically eaten out by fire before we could get there with our nozzles. It was a tremendous loss to the government. We could do nothing to save the model-room, and it was all that we could do to save the building which is the home of the interior department."

"The other government department buildings have been free from fires, excepting the old navy department building on Seventeenth street. That fire occurred so long ago that I have forgotten the date. Besides, it didn't amount to much, for we put it out in a very short time."

"Did you ever hear of the burning of the Smithsonian institution? That occurred about dinner time in February, 1866, or 1867. Talk about cold weather! That was a hummer! We worked in snow a foot deep and with a blizzard of wind sweeping around us. We poured ice-cold water on the fire. The water seemed to almost freeze as it left the nozzles. We had an awful time with the hose, too, for it was almost frozen. And if the water hadn't been running through it very fast it would have frozen in the hose. We saved the walls, but that was all. It was impossible to save anything else. The wind helped the flames and completely baffled all of our efforts. If it hadn't been for the bitter cold and the terrible wind we might have done better. We certainly worked hard enough."

"There were three other notable fires in which cold weather prevailed against us and our work. Wall's opera house burned down. It was on the corner of Ninth and Louisiana avenue, close to Pennsylvania avenue. The site has since been occupied by Ford's theater, and is now the common vaudeville playhouse. MUST STOP LIGHT WASTE.

Treasury Officials Send Out Notice to Employees in Public Buildings.

It is proposed by the treasury officials to economize on the use of gas and electricity in public buildings. It has been discovered that great carelessness exists all over the country in this respect, and the circumstance has led to this order from the secretary of the treasury addressed to the custodians of government buildings:

"The department desires to emphasize the fact that in a number of public buildings, under its control there is a considerable waste of gas or electricity, or both, which by the observance of a proper degree of watchfulness on the part of the employees could be avoided. This applies particularly to post office workrooms, and in some instances to the basements of the buildings, where, owing to a lack of interest or willful neglect, lights are permitted to burn when there exists no necessity therefor."

"Officials and employees should be instructed to extinguish the light immediately upon the completion of their work, or when there exists no further necessity for its use, and the names of any officials or employees who, from carelessness or indifference, contribute to the wastage of gas or electricity, should be reported to this office, together with the branch of the service with which they are connected."

"You will please give the matter your personal attention, and from time to time visit the various rooms and corridors in the building, and also request officials of the post office department, where they occupy buildings, to cooperate with you, in order that the consumption of gas or electricity may be reduced to the actual requirements of the official business of the government."

MANY SAVED BY ENGINEER.

Prompt Action Prevents Destruction of a Train Filled with Passengers.

A train from Boston loaded with passengers for Chicago and western points had a hair-raising experience with a runaway freight and for a few moments it was expected that the entire train would be hurled into eternity. A freight train of 45 cars had pulled out of the tunnel six miles from Harpersville, N. Y., and started down a heavy six-mile grade when the brakes failed to hold and the train attained a fearful velocity. The engineer stuck to his post, realizing the danger to the passenger train ahead. He blew the whistle continuously, hoping to give warning before it was too late. The passenger was standing at the Harpersville depot, and hearing the whistling, surmised the cause instantly. It pulled out of the yard, but none too soon, for the freight could be seen approaching at lightning speed.

The trains raced to Nineveh, the freight gaining rapidly. Here an up-grade was struck, which slackened the runaway's speed, and it was brought to a stop 60 feet from the last passenger coach.

A Noted Knight Templar Owes His Health to Peruna.

Colonel T. P. Moody, a prominent Knight Templar, is well known in every city in the United States west of Buffalo, N. Y., as a Jeweler's Auctioneer. In the city of Chicago as a prominent lodge man, being a member of the K. T.'s and also of the Masons. The cut shows Colonel Moody in the costume of the Oriental Consistory Masons, 32nd degree.

In a recent letter from 5900 Michigan avenue, Chicago, Ill., Mr. Moody says the following:

"For over twenty-five years I suffered from catarrh, and for over ten years I suffered from catarrh of the stomach terribly."

"I have taken all kinds of medicines and have been treated by all kinds of doctors, as thousands of my acquaintances are aware in different parts of the United States, where I have traveled, but my relief was only temporary, until a little over a year ago I started to take Peruna, and at the present time I am better than I have been for twenty years."

"The soreness has left my stomach entirely and I am free from indigestion and dyspepsia and will say to all who are troubled with catarrh or stomach trouble of any kind, don't put it off and suffer, but begin to take Peruna right away, and keep it up until you are cured, as you surely will be if you persevere."

"My wife, as many in the southwest can say, was troubled with a bad cough and bronchial trouble, and doctors all over the country gave her up to die, as they could do nothing more for her. She began taking Peruna with the result that she is better now than she has been in years, and her cough has almost left her entirely. The soreness has left her lungs and she is as well as she ever was in her life, with thanks, as she says, to Peruna. Yours very truly, T. P. Moody.

Catarrh in its various forms is rapidly becoming a general curse. An undoubted remedy has been discovered by Dr. Hartman. This remedy has been thoroughly tested during the past forty years. Prominent men have come to know of its virtues, and are making public utterances on the subject. To save the country we must save the people. To save the people we must protect them from disease. The disease that is at once the most prevalent and stubborn of cure is catarrh.

If one were to make a list of the different names that have been applied to catarrh in different locations and organs, the result would be astonishing. We have often published a partial list of these names, and the surprise caused by the first publication of it to all people, both professional and non-professional, was amusing. And yet we have never enumerated all of the diseases which are classed as catarrh. It must be confessed, however, to see even this partial list drawn up in battle array is rather appalling. If the reader desires to see this list, together with a short exposition of each one, send for our free catarrh book. Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

WOMEN IN TROUBLE.

The Approach of Motherhood is the Occasion of Much Anxiety to All.

Every woman dreads the ordeal through which she must pass in becoming a mother. The pain and suffering which is in store for her is a source of constant anxiety, fear and dread, to say nothing of the danger which the coming incident entails. The joyous anticipations with which she looks forward to baby's coming gives way to an awful, terrible dread of the ordeal when she fully realizes the critical and trying event which will soon approach and have to be endured.

Women should hail with delight a remedy which insures to them immunity from the pain, suffering and danger incidental to child-bearing. Such a remedy is now offered, and women need not fear longer the hour of childbirth. "Mother's Friend"—is a scientific liniment—and if used before confinement, gently and surely prepares the body for the great requirements and changes it is undergoing, insures safety to both mother and child, and takes her through the event with comparative ease and comfort. This wonderful remedy is praised by every woman who has used it.

What woman is not interested in "Mother's Friend?" This wonderful remedy has been tested and its priceless value proven by the experience of thousands of happy mothers who have used it during the most critical period of woman's life—the approach and culmination of motherhood.

It has won their everlasting praise, for it gave them help and hope in their most trying hour and when most needed. Every woman may some day need "Mother's Friend." The little book, "Before Baby is Born," telling all about it, and when it should be used, will prove of great interest and benefit to all expectant mothers, and will be sent free to any address upon application to the Bradford Regulator Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Question Answered

Y's August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers, and grandmothers, never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and had with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Sold by dealers in all civilized countries. oct-27-1y

SCROFULA The Blighting Disease of Heredity.

In many respects Scrofula and Consumption are alike; they develop from the same general causes, both are hereditary and dependent upon an impure and impoverished blood supply. In consumption the disease fastens itself upon the lungs; in Scrofula the glands of the neck and throat swell and suppurate, causing ugly running sores; the eyes are inflamed and weak; there is an almost continual discharge from the ears, the limbs swell, bones ache, and white swelling is frequently a result, causing the diseased bones to work out through the skin, producing indescribable pain and suffering. Cutting away a sore or diseased gland does no good; the blood is poisoned. The old scrofulous taint which has probably come down through several generations has polluted every drop of blood.

Scrofula requires vigorous, persistent treatment. The blood must be brought back to a healthy condition before the terrible disease can be stopped in its work of destruction. Mercury, potash and other poisonous minerals usually given in such cases do more harm than good; they ruin the digestion and leave the system in a worse condition than before.

S. S. S. is the only medicine that can reach deep-seated blood troubles like Scrofula. It goes down to the very roots of the disease and forces every vestige of poison out of the blood. S. S. S. is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known. The roots and herbs from which it is made contain wonderful blood purifying properties, which no poison, however powerful, can long resist. S. S. S. stimulates and purifies the blood, increases the appetite, aids the digestion and restores health and strength to the enfeebled body. If you have reason to think you have Scrofula, or your child has inherited any blood taint, don't wait for it to develop, but begin at once the use of S. S. S. It is a fine tonic and the best blood purifier and blood builder known, as it contains no poisonous minerals. S. S. S. is pre-eminently a remedy for children.

When my daughter was an infant she had a severe case of Scrofula, for which she was under the constant care of physicians for more than two years. She was at the end of that time, however, and we almost despaired of her life. A few bottles of Swift's S. S. S. cured her completely, as it seemed to go direct to the cause of the trouble. I do not believe it has an equal for stubborn cases of blood diseases which are beyond the power of other so-called blood remedies. S. T. Brooks, Monticello, Ga.

Our medical department is in charge of experienced physicians who have made Scrofula and other blood diseases a life study. Write them about your case, or any one you are interested in. Your letter will receive prompt and careful attention. We make no charge whatever for this.
